Click to go to the shop to add this article to the fun facts of the cart: Brian Wilson wrote the song in 45 minutes with Tony Asher, a copyright and advertising lyricist. Released in 1966, God Knows is considered a classic of beach boys, but it was released as a side B, in part due to the fear that radio stations would refuse to play a song with "God" in the title. The song reflects Wilson's interest in spirituality and it was a great departure from the previous songs of Beach Boys who dealt with girls, cars and surfing. The Paroliere Asher felt that they were taking some real possibilities with the song, not only why "God" was in the title, but also because "it opens saying:" I could not always love you ", which is a very unusual way of Starting a love song. "In the version recorded by the beach boys, a percussionist sounds an almost continuous pace on two empty jugs Orange juice. To measure no. 39, I imitate the sound with the lards of the tongue.
